Lisa Schumacher has been riding horses since she was 12. She has a lifelong passion and appreciation for animals, views, and clean air. She loves to paint. While she was in school, her favorite subjects were calligraphy, art, music and skiing in Tahoe any way she could get there. Lisa is a creative gourmet chef for her friends and family.

A spirited and adventurous woman Lisa moved to Carmel Valley three years ago with her husband who adores her. She owns and rides a champagne Rocky Mountain gelding. With all animals, she has an unusual bond on an emotional level. Lisa has an extraordinary ability to paint her love of the soul of the animal and the heart of landscape.

Lisa is a severe dyslexic. She has an uncommon ability to see many shades of colors and does well with visual puzzles. She has all the traits of a tetrachromat; her son Jack exhibits the red/green color blindness typical of a son who carries the tetrachromat gene alleles.

Lisa began her formal art education in oil painting on her 61st birthday. She has a lovely studio with afternoon light and fresh air. Her views from the Carmel River towards the hills of the Valley bring her a sense of peace when she paints.

People from this and other countries have commissioned her to paint their special animal friends.
